Wounded in Right Thigh, but Hospital Reports Not Dangerously.

FOUGHT DUEL IN PAWNSHOP

Officer Unable to Shoot Quickly, as Belt Interfered With Effort to Get Pistol.

The condition of Patrolman C. J. Milford, who was shot in the right thigh yesterday morning by William Williams, colored, twenty-four years old, was last night reported from the hospital for the sick to be satisfactory. It was said that unless unexpected complications developed he would be discharged.

Williams, a curly negro, who was caught by a crowd of citizens and turned over to police reserves shortly after the shooting, was lodged in the First Police Station. He refused to talk. The police believe that he is responsible for several recent robberies. A pistol duel between Folkes and Williams started in the pawnshop of A. K. Kinsley, 100 North Seventh street, after the negro had opened fire. He shot five times. Folkes had difficulty in drawing his revolver, because he was unable to get his belt, which was fastened to his trousers, to open. He then drew a knife and slashed Williams' arm. Williams, suddenly opening a fire, shot at the officer. The bullet hit Folkes' right thigh. He was taken to the hospital.

Fired Once as He Felt. Folkes fired one shot at the retreat of Williams, when he was wounded and fell. The negro ran up an alley, but was caught by police officers, who were quickly on the scene. A short while before the shooting, Williams, who was in the pawnshop, was described, and in a few minutes was located. Williams was taken to the pawnshop for identification. He had with him a small grip. Williams, suddenly opening a fire, shot at the officer. The bullet hit Folkes' right thigh. He was taken to the hospital.

At the First Police Station Folkes was rendered emergency treatment by Dr. Robert Whitehead, City Hospital surgeon, and removed to the hospital.

WANTS COMMITTEE ON RETRENCHMENT

Would Look Into Consolidation or Abolition of Useless State Departments.

FOR BOARDS OF CONTROL

Judge Williams Proposes Wholesale Reforms in Interests of Economy.

Retrenchment and economy in the administration of the affairs of the State, after careful study by the committee, are proposed in a joint resolution offered in the House of Delegates yesterday by Judge Martin Williams, of Giles County. The resolution provides for the appointment of a committee of three to be known as the Government Retrenchment Committee, to consist of members of the House to be named by the speaker and one of the Senate to be named by the president of that body. The committee under the terms of the resolution is to meet in Richmond on or before the first day of March, and to report to the next regular meeting of the General Assembly on the following subjects:

1. Whether or not any of the departments or offices of the State Government could be abolished without impairing the efficiency thereof.

2. Whether or not the consolidation of the departments of the judicial circuit is so as to lessen the number.

3. Whether or not the State Polytechnic Institute, at Blacksburg, and all the departments, boards and institutions of the State pertaining to agriculture could not be consolidated into one department or under one management.

4. Whether or not the management or control of the higher educational institutions and eleemosynary and charitable institutions can be improved by one management or one board of control.

5. Whether or not the different departments of health, medical boards and institutions could not be brought under one management or one board of control.

6. Whether or not the expense of conducting the Department of Education is not too great, particularly as to summer normal schools, the cost of division superintendents and the extra expense of the school year.

7. Whether or not the cost of the sessions of the General Assembly is not too great.

8. Whether or not the different departments of the State Government should not be kept open eight hours each week, instead of six hours.

9. Any other matter which in the opinion of the committee would tend to lessen the expense of the State Government without impairing the efficiency thereof.

The resolution provides that the State Accountant shall act as clerk of the committee, and the members are to be paid at the rate of $25 per day and actual expenses for the time actually engaged in the work, and the pay shall be in full for each member of the committee.

On motion the resolution was referred to the House Appropriations Committee.

STATE WILL SEND BIG DELEGATION

Progressive Democratic League Plans to Entertain Large Convention Crowd.

FINAL DETAILS ARRANGED

Local Committee Decides Upon Method for Distributing Seats in Hall.

Preparations for the reception and entertainment of 1,000 delegates to the first State convention of the Virginia Progressive Democratic League, which will meet in Richmond on Friday and Saturday, were made yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the committee on arrangements. John Garland Pollard, president of the league, announced that the league headquarters had received letters from 550 out-of-town delegates, who ask that accommodations be reserved for them. The committee will be responsible for the distribution of the convention delegates, not a single delegate in the State will be unrepresented.

For the first session of the convention, which will be addressed by Senator Robert L. Owen, of Oklahoma, the committee selected the John Marshall High School auditorium, which has a seating capacity of 1,200. Subsequent developments warrant the meeting will be transferred to the City Auditorium. It was decided, however, that the Saturday night session, at which Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan will speak, will be held in the City Auditorium. Tickets will be printed for every seat in both auditoriums, and the delegates will be placed in the hands of a small committee.

No tickets will be given out until Friday morning, when the league will open registration headquarters in a room at the lobby of Murphy's Hotel. All applicants for reservations must apply there, members of the league getting first priority.

Cities Send Big Delegations. The arrangements committee received word yesterday that Danville will send a delegation of 100, which will come to Richmond on special cars, under the leadership of former Senator Aubrey E. Strode. From Norfolk a delegation of 50, under the care of C. Steele, will come, while Portsmouth will send fifty or more, and R. W. Price will bring a large representation from Petersburg.

Since the league issued its call for the convention and tickets for registration, more than 800 members have been enrolled, invitations to join the progressive movement being sent to all State officers, the members of the General Assembly, the members of Congress, and to all members of the Democratic faith, who subscribe to the doctrines advocated by the league.

The 550 delegates, who are expected to attend the convention, are constantly being augmented, and the committee expects to have many more apply for seats. No estimate has been made of the number of Richmond people who will take part in the organization sessions.

The arrangements committee, which met yesterday for the first time, entered into all the details of the convention and planned minutely for the management of the affair. W. A. Crenshaw was elected chairman of the committee, and James R. Sheppard, Jr., secretary. Committees were named to meet Senator Owen and the Secretary of State, and to take charge of the various features of the convention, which have to-day taken the form of a social gathering here by Governor Stuart at the Executive Mansion.

Oil Corporation Loses on Appeal. Judge Richardson Decides in State's Favor in Matter of Taxing Standard Oil.

Judge D. C. Richardson, of the Hustings Court, yesterday handed down an opinion in the case of the Commonwealth against the Standard Oil Company, upholding the contention of the Commonwealth that the corporation should pay a merchant's license tax on all goods bought.

On March 19, 1913, the Standard Oil Company made oath that its purchases as a merchant during the preceding twelve months amounted in value to $67,320, when, as alleged by the Commonwealth, the real value of all the purchases was $200,000 at least.

In making this statement the corporation did not take into account the goods received from the manufacturing department of which the merchant is a part. The State held that the assessment for the license tax should be made on all goods received, whether bought on the outside or received by the merchant from his own company, and this conclusion was upheld by the court.

In his opinion Judge Richardson said, in part: "That whether such goods, wares and merchandise purchased at such place of business, were bought from other persons or received from the manufacturer, although such manufacturer be the same corporation or person doing such business as a merchant, all the goods bought, sold or delivered at and from such place of business, are 'purchases' within the meaning of section 6 of the tax laws of Virginia, and that the amount in value of all such goods so received and sold or offered for sale and delivery at and from such place of business, during the preceding twelve months, should be the basis for the assessment of the license tax upon such merchant."

The Commissioner of Revenue Tresnon assessed the company in the sum of $404, which was paid under protest. The company then sought to have the assessment reduced and to have refunded to it the sum of $280, the difference between a license tax of $124, which was paid, and the $404 assessed. The court held that the company was liable for the full amount of the license tax.

The court also held that the corporation was liable for the license tax on all goods bought, sold or delivered at and from such place of business, during the preceding twelve months, should be the basis for the assessment of the license tax upon such merchant.

On the basis of all the goods bought outside and received from the corporation, amounting to $551,460 for the year ending April 30, 1913, Judge Richardson found that the tax should have been $655, and entered an order that the sum of $251, the difference between the amount paid and the amount which should have been paid, should be assessed against the company.
